Gelato is Italian ice cream. While gelato and American ice cream are very similar, there are differences. Gelato is churned much slower than ice cream which means there is less air in it making it more flavorful than ice cream. Gelato is also served a bit warmer so it is more creamy than ice cream because your taste-buds are not frozen when you eat gelato. Oh... and did we mention the best part? Gelato has MUCH LESS FAT than traditional American ice cream! What are you waiting for? Have more taste, without the uncomfortable "overfull" feeling!
